Client Server and Peer-to-Peer Networking

1. In Client Server architecture, what is the central component?

    The central component is the server.

2. What are the advantages of Client Server architecture?

    The advantages of Client Server architecture are increased performance and a central repository for storing applications.

3. What are the disadvantages of Client Server architecture?

    The disadvantages of Client Server architecture are expense of the server and the difficulty in setup and maintenance.